There are so many BBQs available in the market it can be difficult to decide which one is right for you and your entertaining needs. At Barbeques Galore we ask How Do You BBQ? Use the points in this guide to understand which BBQ is best suited for you and take these same questions to the competition and you will see why Barbeques Galore is Australia's favourite BBQ retailer.

The Shake Test

The shake test can reveal much about how well a BBQ is put together. Too much horizontal movement is a sign of an inferior BBQ, specifically a poorly built frame. Often, makers of bargain BBQs cut corners in the materials they use and the design and construction process. Grab a Barbeques Galore BBQ and you'll feel the difference.

What Is the BBQ Made Of?

Different BBQs use different materials, for example there is a vast difference in the performance of a BBQ with glazed enamel finish and a BBQ with Vitreous Enamel finish. Stainless Steel BBQs are not all the same. There are different gauges, different grades, different welding techniques, all these make a differences in the quality of your BBQ.

Our staff can demonstrate the differences between materials and show you how to verify if another BBQ brand is really what they say it is.

What Does The Warranty Really Cover

Read the fine print. Ask the hard questions. Make sure you get satisfactory answers. Just because there is a warranty on the BBQ, it does not mean that all components of the BBQ are also covered. All Barbeques Galore BBQs come with a warranty on the frame and on the components.

LPG or Natural Gas

Barbeques Galore offers you the option of both natural gas or LPG in a majority of Barbeques Galore BBQs, unlike other retailers which offer only LPG. Can't decide on which one is best? Don't worry, in future, if you do want to switch your BBQs fuel source Barbeques Galore can help. Not only can we answer the questions on how to make the switch, but we can provide you with the knowledge to make the whole conversion process go smoothly.

Who Will Assist You With Your BBQ?

Barbeques Galore have their own technicians on hand who can assist you with delivery & assembly. After sales service is just as important to us- which is why our staff are trained to answer any queries you may have, so count on on the experts!
